

1. Different types of Assured Shorthold Tenancy to terminate

Landlords can only obtain possession of an Assured Shorthold Tenancy unless they have obtained a court order for possession. In order to obtain possession, a landlord must serve a notice on the tenant advising that they require possession and bringing the tenancy to an end. The procedure is different according to the type of Assured Shorthold Tenancy.

1.1 Assured Shorthold Tenancy where the fixed term expired or nearly expired

For an Assured Shorthold Tenancy, and the fixed term has expired or will expire within the next 28 days, the landlord can use the "accelerated" procedure for possession under Section 21 of the Housing Act 1988. This is the simplest way of obtaining possession. The landlord does not need to show any fault on the part of the tenant as a reason for requiring a tenant to vacate. The Section 21 Notice procedure is set out below.

1.2 Assured Shorthold Tenancy during the fixed term

If the landlord wants to obtain possession during the fixed term, the accelerated s21 procedure cannot be used. See Guidance Note: Obtaining Possession of a Property Held on an Assured Shorthold Tenancies - S8 Notices

1.3 Assured Shorthold Tenancy (after and during the fixed term)

The accelerated procedure is not available in these circumstances and Section 8 Notices must be used. See Guidance Note: Obtaining Possession of a Property Held on an Assured or Assured Shorthold Tenancies - S8 Notices

2. Section 21 Notice

2.1 A landlord can use the accelerated possession procedure should serve a Section 21 Notice on the tenant.

2.2 The court will grant a possession order as long as the landlord has given the tenant notice that they require possession. Most cases do not go to court and the tenant will vacate the property at the end of the notice period.

2.3 A Section 21 Notice must be in the prescribed form (Form 6A) and can be sent to the tenant by post. See Section 21 Covering Letter.

2.4 Landlord's Section 21 Notice will not be valid if:

- a) The landlord has not provided to protect the tenant's tenancy deposit in an authorised tenancy deposit protection scheme within 30 days of receipt; or
- b) The landlord has not provided the tenant with the prescribed information has not been provided to the tenant within 30 days of receipt of the deposit. The landlord will not be able to serve a Section 21 Notice until the deposit is returned (if it was not returned to the landlord with the tenancy deposit protection legislation) or the prescribed information has been served.

- b) have obtained an HMO (house in multiple occupation) licence for the property and has failed to do so
- c) less than four months before the date of the Notice
- d) provide the tenant with a valid energy performance certificate
- e) to provide the tenant with the most recent version of the "How to rent: the checklist for renting in England" from the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government as of the date the tenancy was granted, renewed or extended
- f) received a notice or an emergency remedial action notice in writing under the Housing Health and Safety Rating System issued by the local authority within the last six months;
- g) has not repaid any unlawfully charged fees or returned an unlawful holding deposit as required by the Tenant Fees Act 2019.

3. Possession

- 3.1 If the tenant does not vacate the property by the date given in the Section 21 Notice, the landlord may apply to the court for possession. Please refer to the Notes: Obtaining Possession of Residential Property for the correct procedure.
